

A Level History

Exam Board: Edexcel

Type of qualification: A Level

Level of Course: 3

Aim of Course:

History is a widely respected A Level choice with a variety of transferable skills that prepare students effectively for further study at university or for entering a range of jobs. The course explores a range of issues affecting different countries in times of change, focusing on the development of fascism and dictatorship in Europe in the 20th Century and the changing political, economic and social landscape of Europe. In the second year of the course students move onto study the origins of World War I as their research based coursework which familiarises students with academic works and prepares them for extended research based writing. Students also study the British Empire over an extended period of time which focuses on British actions and relations in different areas of the world (including North America and Africa) and wider themes of trade and militarism.

The new A Level course builds effectively on written and analytical skills that students will find invaluable in a range of subjects at A Level and beyond. Students will develop critical reasoning skills, plan and conduct research effectively, learn to effectively analyse evidence, think creatively to solve problems and to construct an argument which can be delivered persuasively. Students will also engage with historical problems and gain the confidence to undertake independent learning which will further prepare them for study or work after sixth form. The study of History also allows students the opportunity to investigate other cultures and the development of the world to better understand the current climate in international relations and the culture of the state we live in. History often leads students into careers including: journalism, law, education, civil service, publishing, archaeology, archiving and heritage, business, politics, marketing and advertising.
